Survival of the fittest will determine the outcome of this game. Four types of monsters will fight to the death to find the strongest of them all, discover the secret abilities of your monsters and the bonuses they can achieve to be crowned victorious as the true King of Games.

The goal of the player is to achieve full board control with their type of monster wiping out the rest and allowing your monsters to reign over the board until the end of time.

The player will start the game off by choosing a type they wish to play. After, they will strategically move a monster of that type expanding their board and attempting to clear the board of any monster not of equal type. The game will end when the player takes full control of the board, has all their monsters defeated, or runs out of life points. Each type has both strengths and weakness to a unique type and the field plays a role in the strength of certain monsters.
